Speaker and Elmer Smith Enliven Game With "Bones"

Brainy Tris Allows Rice to Score from Second On Outfield Fly-Miller's Homer with Two on Bases Gives Big Thrill.

By JACK NYE.

Tristam Speaker and his athletes are beyond a doubt the baseball champions of this section of universe, but you would never have guessed it to see them in action yesterday.

It was not so much that the Griffmen returned to their old batting form and socked a brace of Indian pitchers with commendable frequency for a 10 to 3 victory. Such things are liable to happen to any ball team now and then.

But it was a shock to see the champs fall into evil ways and deport themselves like a south Wisconsin league organization. And when it came to making a show of himself, Mr. Speaker refused to let any of his boys carry off the palm. The wily veteran doesn't pull "bones" often, but when the spirit moves him he balks at playing

Tris Pulls Prize "Bone."

Tris waltred off with first honors in a close race with Elmer Smith, when he allowed Sam Rice to score from second in the seventh inning on an outfield fly. The clear-headed Indian leader was laboring under the impression that there were two out when he made the catch. He went far back for the ball and then began to hoof it leisurely for the bench. Rice was already past third before Tris realized his error and made a belated throw to the When the inning was over the when the inning was over the crowd gave Speaker a good natured razzberry and he took it like a sport, doffing his lid with a sheep-ish smile. Thus in a very few days time, Washington fans have enjoyed the experience of seeing both Cobb and Speaker "pull-one."

Speaker's mental large was all

Speaker's mental lapse was all the more amusing because he had just finished saying sharp words to Elmer Smith for one on the very same order. With Harris on third. and Rice on second and one out. Brower sent a hot drive into Smith's hands. Thinking that it would go safe, Bucky took a long lead off the bag and Rice dashed it all the way to third. When Smith caught the ball he had an easy chance to double Sam off second, as the speedboy was still in the neighborhood of the hot station. Inand Rice on second and one out, stead he held the ball and then made a lazy throw to Burns at first. While all this was going on, Rice sneaked back to second and Harris, after returning to third, sped home for an unexpected run.

Miller Hits His First Homer.

As damaging as these slips were, they didn't lose the ball game. The blow that killed father came in the sixth when Bing Miller, the Southern league home-run cham-pion, demonstrated that he can hit em for the circuit in the major smashed a colossal drive against the jury box fence for his first home run of the season. A foot and a half more lift would have put the ball inside the bleachers. With the taception of Harry Hellman, Miller the only athlete who has ever reached the left field barrier with a drive. His wallon gave the Griffe. drive. His wallop gave the Griffs a healthy lead and took the strain off George Mogridge, who hung up his seventh win.

Uhle traveled strong for the first four rounds, during which period Joe Judge got the only hit. In the fifth, however, Miller's single and steal and Gharrity's hit to left scored the first run of the game.

Griffs Get Four in Sixth.

One of those frequent big innings which have marked the work of the Griffs all season popped up in the sixth, and the Griffs put the same sixth, and the Griffs put the game hit on a difficult grounder to Burns.

Judge skied out and Harris singled, sending the pitcher to third.

Rice skied to Wamby and Brower

Rice skied to Wamby and Brower singled off Burns' glove, counting Mogridge. This brought Miller to the platter and he crashed his foursacker to the jury box, adding three runs to the total. Speaker went after the drive fast, but it took a bad bound past him and Bing was nearing third when he recovered. Shanks singled and Gharrity doubled after Bing's big bless. bled after Bing's big blow, but O'Rourke furnished the final out long one to Evans.

In the seventh it was a comedy of errors, most of them mental, and McBride's men added four more markers. Mogridge got as far as second when Sothoron, who replaced Uhle in the box, made a wild throw to first. Judge hit to Burns, who bluffed a throw to second and the second control of the exchequible of the exchange of the exchequible of the exchequible of the exchequible of the exchequible of the exchange bluffed a throw to second and then year. discovered that neither Sothoron nor Wamby had covered first. It was a hit for Joe. Harris was hit on a hit for Joe. Harris was hit on the arm, filling the bases, and Rice singled to center, scoring Mogridge and Judge. Brower's liner to Smith, which should have resulted in a double play, saw Harris come in from third, and Rice registered from second when Speaker forgot to make a throw in on Miller's deep make a throw in on Miller's deep Shanks lifted to Evans for the third out.

Not satisfied with nine runs, the Griffs added a tenth in the eighth. After Gharrity and O'Rourke had singled, Pat surprised Sothoron by stealing home while O'Rourke stealing home while O'Rourke swiped third. "Blackie" tried to count also when the ball got away from Catcher Wilson, but was er and Gardner and Sewell's infield out brought Spoke home. In the eighth Speaker was safe on a fielder's choice, advanced a base on Smith's short single and another on a wild pitch, counting when Sewell singled to center.

The final Indian tally came in the ninth when Stephenson batted for Sothoron and was safe on O'Rourke's error. Evans' double sent him to third and he crossed the plate on Wamby's single to left. Speaker brought an end to the entertainment by batting into a double play by way of Harris, O'Rourke and Judge.

BERT COLLYER'S Both Fighters Described As Big Terry McGoverns

Only Difference Is that Champion Is the Bigger-Alike in Two Things-Fast And Love Dogs.

By ROBERT EDGREN.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Carpentier has often been described by Americans returning from France as "a big Terry McGovern."

Dempsey has often been described here as "a big Terry McGovern."

The difference between them is that Dempsey is a bigger Terry McGovern.

The difference between them is that Dempsey is a bigger Terry McGovern. Other things being equal, that ought to give a fair line on the probable winner when Carpentier and Dempsey meet.

The trouble with this line of argument is that no one knows whether other things are equal or not.

Carpentier hasn't a Terry McGovern 'Ike to let me out of his sight."

His down to the surposed to see the point of the war went to the war with the princess Pats and served until he was shot down and crippled. His down to the surposed to fight conditions.

To go back to fight conditions.

Govern or a Jack Dempsey type of mind. He thinks of a thousand other things besides fighting, has other interests by the score—is a student, an avigtor, a war veteran a personal friend of half the big men in Europe, a skilled acrobat, a track and field athlete in the army sports: altogether a very quick, keen versatile young man. So far as I can see, Dempsey and Carpentier are alike in only two things; each is quick as a flash in action, and both have a love for dogs, especially Belgian police dogs.

I was at Dempsey's camp when his dog was recovering from an accident. An automobile ran oved him. Dempsey sewed up a cut in his side with five stitches, and the dog looked up at Jack and submitted to the rough surgery without a tremor or a whimper.

"He's half gray wolf and half Belgian police dog, and he sure has confidence in me," Dempsey said proudly.

"I bred his mother to a gray wolf at the menagerie in Sait Lake. He's of preparation for the last fow days.

"I bred his mother to a gray wolf at the menagerie in Sait Lake. He's only a pup, but he's going to be a great dog." And the next day I visited Carpentier at Manhasset. With Gus Wilson I walked upstairs to see if Geoges was lying down in his room. But he was out. Under Lhe bed I saw a dog. As Gus and I stopped at the open door the dog came out, walked over to us, wagged his tail, gave me a friendly sniff, and went back again.

"He's a friendly fellow," isn't he.

"If Georges were here we couldn't Note - Jack Dempsey

"If Georges were here we couldn't cross the threshold without having him at our throats," Wilson replied.

"The dog always sleeps under Georges' bed to guard him, and he allows no one in the room. Even I cannot go in, as well as he knows me. He woud kill me if I rame near Georges when he is asleep. He watches all the time."

Note — Jack Dempsey never smokes,

But that gold matchbox will be nice for Jack to have. He can take it along into the mountains when the allows no one in the room. Even I cannot go in, as well as he knows me. (Copyright, 1921, by the Bell Syndients, is United States, Canadá, Great Britain and South America.)
